The Door County Candle Company is located in picturesque Door County Wisconsin. Founded in 1993, it has been a tradition for generations of families for over 25 years. In 2021, Christiana Trapani, a Door County native, took over as owner of the candle company. Having a love of candles and Door County, she is excited to keep the Door County Candle Company alive, and the traditions strong. The Door County Candle Company will be providing guests a historical look at the inner workings of a candle company. Under the thoughtful guidance of the Trapani family, don't miss the opportunity to "stop and smell the candles".

For 45 years, Door Peninsula Winery has been a mainstay of the Door County economy, producing the finest and largest selection of wines in Wisconsin.

The winery was founded in 1974 in a former two-room schoolhouse. The building was chosen by the winemakers because of its thick basement walls (which made it perfect for storing wine).

Since Door County's climate was too cold to grow conventional grapes, the winery's initial products were made from locally grown fruit. Since the early 1900s, the county had been famous for its cherries, so cherry wine was a natural starting point, with apple, strawberry and plum wines following shortly thereafter, flavors like Plum Loco and the apple-and-cherry-based Sunset Splash remain some of the more popular wines it produces each year.

In 1984, the winery was purchased by Bob and Noreen Pollman. They expanded the range of wines made to include other fruits such as mango, blackberry, pears and grapes. They also helped pioneer the creation of fruit/grape blends, such as the popular Blackberry Merlot and Cranbernet (cranberry and Cabernet Sauvignon).

With increased demand from this wider range of offerings, Door Peninsula Winery has been forced to expand. In 2011, a third expansion was made to accommodate Door County Distillery. Here, several varieties of vodka – including the high-end Luminous brand and a cherry-flavored version – as well as gin, whisky, brandy and bitters are made and sold.

Through it all, Door Peninsula Winery has maintained excellence in its production. Fittingly, the winery's products have consistently been recognized for their high level of quality. Collectively Door Peninsula Winery has earned over 200. With over 60 different wines and ciders to be tasted at one of our two tasting bars, we hope you will be able to add to this rich and flavorful history.

Fish Creek Winterfest - Fish Creek's longest-standing tradition and Door County's quirkiest winter event features live music, games, delicious food, the not-so-serious "Fruit Loop Fun Run," an entertaining Stumpf Fiddle Contest, spectacular fireworks display and a "Smokin Hot" Chili Cook-Off...all under a heated tent overlooking the frozen waters of Green Bay.
